Champion Willard has drawn the color line. He made this plain before he stepped into the ring with Johnson. By drawing the color line Willard assures himself of retaining the title for some time to come, for there does not appear to be any white heavyweights who stand a chance to beat him, and there probably will not be any for a few years to come.

Shanks, who will improve the team streagth in every respect.

Griffith is very apt to go along with Shanks for a while in the hope that he will have a good year with the bat. If he falls then a change is sure to be made, but hardly before the season is the falls then a change is ready before the season is the fall than a change is ready who will also be considered. Both are working hard to keep themselves in condition so as to be ready when called upon.

Gardner of Agawam fought it out to a finish, and the contest was mainly one of putting, which the westerner won by a sensibly that his cross will be planted by the

for a few years to come.

By eliminating Langford, Jeanette and McVey Willard will very sensibly avoid the toughest of the heavies now in the game. He might be able to score over all of these, but his position is decidedly safer now that he has drawn the color line.

Willard gives promise of being a very popular titleholder. He is said to be modest and not inclined to leave the straight and narrow path even when his money begins to roll in. Puglism has been helped a great deal by the defeat of Johnson, and those promoting the sport will see to it that it will be some time before the world's championship will again be held by a colored fighter.

It pays to rip out everything in hase

It pays to run out everything in base ball. This thing of taking anything for granted is a serious mistake. True, usually a little fly ball to the in or out field is caught, and proves an easy out, but the player who will get as far around the circuit as he can while the play is being made stands a better chance to win the game should a mistake be made by the fielder.

It is the best kind of a policy for a madaager to insist that every ball that is hit, regardless of where it may be run out and a lot of games which are lost would be won.

Reports from those who sat at the ringside at Havana the other day indicate that Father Time made it possible for Willard to win the title. For twenty rounds Jack Johnson went at his usual speed, hitting when and where he pleased, and, though his blows lacked the force of former years, he looked to have the fight much his own way. But twenty was as far as he could go. Age began to tell at this stage, and from that period to the finish youth was served.

Willard did not tire as did his opponent. He held up under the strain of going this distance and finally was rewarded with a victory when Johnson could not defend himself against his opponent's blows.

Hughey Jennings seems to have picked up a couple of rather likely looking infielders. Fuller and Young by name. These chaps have been playing regularly of late in the exhibition series and have shown splendid form both in the field and at bat. This is particularly true of Fuller, who is hitting like a fiend. There is, of course, but little chance of Fuller taking Donie Bush's job, though he is filling his position during the little fellow's absence. But Jennings is hopeful of getting a good second baseman out of the pair.

Wilhert Robinson and his Brooklyr the Nationals will face left-handed pitching in the game this afternoon Manager Robinson said this morning that he would very likely pitch

The Dodgers are not in the best of form as yet. It was the misfortune of the team to train on a sandy field in Florida, and this interfered with real practice. What is more, Wheat and several others of the regulars are not here with the team, though Wheat is expected here today from his home, Welsert where he was called by the illness of a daughter. Robinson has twenty-two men here

Robinson has twenty-two men here in his squad, and he has sent several young pitchers home.

Manager Griffith proposes to pitch Bert Gallia and Booth Hopper, both of whom have shown splendid form this spring. Gallia in particular has shown remarkable improvement over the form he displayed here during his former stay. He seems to have developed into a finished pitcher, while Hopper is the one pitcher who stands a good chance of being worked regularly during the season.

Connelly of Georgetown had a conference with Managar Griffith yesterday, and it seems assured that he will join the Nationals at the end of the college season. Connelly, however, recused to sign or enter into any agreement as to terms before his work at school is ended, which will be in the early part of June.

college season. Connelly, however, recused to sign or enter into any agreement as to terms before his work at school is ended, which will be in the early part of June.

Dan Moeller is establishing a record for reaching first base this spring. He has gained that bag more often than any other lead-off man during the exhibition season. He had a clean record record against the Phillies Monday, and yesterday he was on first three times out of five trips to the plate. Moeller is not only hitting well, but he is displaying splendid judgment in making the pitchers get the ball over, and he seems to be faster than ever on his feet.

PINEHURST, N. C., April 7.—Young Fillmore K. Robeson's victory over Henry J. Topping in yesterday's thirty-six-hole final of the fifteenth annual united north and south amateur goir championship goes on record as the most brilliant match in the history of the batting for Georgetown, while its exhibition was excellent, especially on the offense.

Connolly, McCarthy and Tormey led in the batting for Georgetown played about as poor a fielding game as it has put up this year, seven errors being made. The Blue and Gray hardly worked up to its usual standard, though at times its exhibition was excellent, especially on the offense.

ting stride. He hit as in the days of old yesterday, and is sure to be of great help to the team the coming sea-tion, and he has accomplished this by hard work.

While it is true that Manager Griffith may in due time make a change in his outfield and supplant Howard Shanks with Henri Rondeau, there is no chance of this being done for some time yet. There is no getting away from the fact that defensively speaking Shanks is one of the most valuable outfielders in the league. He is not as good a batter as he should be to be classed with the great outfielders of the great outfielders of the same, but it would not be an easy proposition to get a substitute for Shanks, who will improve the team streagth in every respect.

Morning work will be continued indefinitely by Manager Griffith. Not the real hot weather makes itself felt will morning practice be discontinued. The present warm spell is just what the members of the local team need to put on the finishing touches of their training. It is this kind of weather that the pifchers in particular need, and it is to be hoped that there will be a siege of it from now on.

If Saturday is a clear day the Boston Braves world champions ought to draw a record-breaking crowd. There naturally has been quite a change in the playing of the Braves since they were here last spring. At that time there was nothing impressive-looking about Stallings' team, but it did the unexpected, won the National League pennant and then won four straight games from the Athletics, breaking the receit of the straight games from the Athletics, breaking the receit of the straight games from the Athletics, breaking the receit of the straight games from the Athletics, breaking the receit of the straight games from the Athletics, breaking the receit of the straight games from the Athletics, breaking the receit of the straight games from the Athletics, breaking the receit of the straight games from the Athletics, breaking the receit of the straight games from the Athletics, breaking the receit of the straight games from the Athletics, breaking the receit of the straight games from the Athletics, breaking the receit of the straight games from the Athletics, breaking the receit of the straight games from the Athletics, breaking the receit of the straight games from the Athletics, breaking the receit of the straight games from the Athletics, breaking the receit of the straight games from the Athletics, breaking the receit of the straight game from the Athletics, breaking the receit of the straight game from the Athletics, breaking the receit of the straight game from the Athletics, breaking

The Canadian in the man team took the lead in its particular event on the opening night, and the efforts of the Philadelphia, New York, White Plains, Jersey City and Newark teams yesterday proved unawailing in attempts to dislodge the visitors.

as Seiglie is not ready to break into the local line-up, he will have to put in his time in practice, which does not develop players as quickly as actually

Demarce, the former Giant, did not set things on fire during the six innings he worked against the Nationals. He was scored on three times and was lucky to get away that easy. In the second inning McBride's hit. Bancroft's poor throw and Moeller's hit gave the Nationals what proved to be their final run.

It was not until the third that the Phillies scored, a double by Luderus and a single by Burns giving them a tally. They rested on their oars until the seventh, when Bentley grew wild. He walked Cravath and Whitted, and after Niehof had sent a long fly to center Cravath went to third.

Luderus bounded the ball to Bentley, and Cravath was caught between home and third. But in the run-up Foster dropped the ball and Cravath scored, while second and third were still occupied. Burns came through with a hit, and the two runs came home, giving the visitors a lead of one. They increased this to two in the next inning, when Paskert singled, took third on Bentley's poor throw and scored on Whitted's sacrifice fly. The score:

real practice outdoors, and consequently could not have been expected to do very well in its first two or three games. Now that it has appeared in several battles much better form is being shown. Two or three weeks from now Holy Cross will be a whole lot different team from what it was when it performed in its opening contests against St. John's and Mount St. Joseph's.

Johns Hopkins is said to have one of the best teams it has ever produced, but is reported not to be possessed of a very good pitching staff. The Brooklanders ought not to have a great deal of trouble winning if they are not opposed by good pitchers, because they have a better hitting combination than the ordinary.

It is likely that Johnson will go to the mound for C. U. and Hagerty for Georgetown. Both these men are capable of serving up pretty good stuff, and ought to win their games if given good support.

championship goes on record as the most brilliant match in the history of this classic. Although Robeson won by 4 up and 2 to play, there never was a time during the afternoon's play when Topping was not a dangerous factor until he pulled his ball off the course into an impossible position for a recovery on the thirty-fourth hole.

The sensation of the day was Robeson's morning round, a conservative to the plate, while Tormey got two out of three. Long and Devlin made two hits each, also, but it was two three-base wallops by Devlin that scored the runs which gave the northerners the victory.

Eastern High lost to the Massanutte

Hird, pitching for Technical High yesterday, did some remarkable work against Fort Washington. He struck out twelve men and did not allow a hit. Hird's work was perfect, with one exception, a slight tendency to be wild. He passed four men to first base, but pitched so effectively at such times that his team was never in danger of being scored on to any extent.

Elseman, who held down second base for Tech, got three hits out of five times at bat.

errors made by the two clubs were due to the exceptional number of chances offered. Georgetown's inner works ac-cepted nineteen assists successfully, while Holy Cross disposed of eighteen. The two shortstops did the best work in this particular, Giacomo of George-town having five and Griffin of Holy Cross six.

It is reported that Harry Costello, former Georgetown athlete, has accepted a place as general all-round athletic coach at the University of Detroit. Costello was a brilliant foot ball player, successful pole vaulter, and took part in base ball to some extent while at Georgetown.

Maxam, who is leading off the batting order for Western, is undoubtedly the fastest man in high school base ball, and he will probably give the opposing catchers a lot of trouble. As fast as Maxam is, he ought to steal second against scholastic receivers very nearly every time he gets on first base. Maxam seems to be hitting fairly well, too, which should make him a over. Although he is accompanying the squad on its way north, Artie declares that he will leave the party when Cincinnati is reached and go to his home in Akron, Ohio. He says that he will remain there until Robert B. Ward, owner of the Brookfeds, calls him to Brooklyn.

In reply to this Magee said: "Hofman had permission from me a week ago to visit his home on the way north. Whether he reports in Brooklyn or not makes little difference to me. Hofman declares that he is now a free agent, but Magee asserts that he can prevent the utility man from playing base ball for the next two years, inasmuch as his contract with the Brooklyn club is for that length of time.

Hap Myers will probably cover for the service on the mound as usual.

Jim Tormey has added a lot of strength to the Georgetown offense since he got in the line-up. Tormey was laid up during the early part of the season with a bad arm, which resulted from blood poison, but has been hitting the ball regularly in pretty nearly every game in which he has taken part. Tormey is captain of the Blue and Gray nine and can play the outfield or first base in a highly creditable manner.
